Happy taco Tuesday! Hope everyone is staying healthy! I have been receiving a lot of assignments, thank you.

These are unusual times. I have never experienced anything like this before. That being said, I am trying to make the best of it. First, by practicing social distancing and constantly washing my hands in order to stay safe. The other thing is self-improvement on any level (physically, intellectually, socially from a distance, etc.). I have been working out, doing some kind of work around the house and most importantly, enjoying this time with my family. This will end and we will look back on this as something to learn from.

Keep up the good work! Really hope to see you soon.
